BULLETIN 3:25 P. M.

Convention Hall, Chicago.—Special.—Dovall submits report of the credentials committee on the Arizona contests, seating 6 Taft delegates. Sullivan of Ohio presents views of minority favoring the seating of the Roosevelt delegates in Arizona and moves its substitution.

Convention Hall, Chicago, June 21.—Special to the Telegraph.—The fourth session of the Republican National convention was not called to order by Chairman Root until 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, one and one-half hours later than the time set for the convention, the delay being caused by the credentials committee which was not ready to report at the scheduled time.

During the morning the committee decided the contest in the 8th Kentucky district by seating the Taft delegates. A compromise was reached in the Missouri cases, 8 Roosevelt delegates being seated and 6 Taft men being recognized. The slowness with which the committee is disposing of the work before it caused Harry New, chairman of the committee on arrangements to state this morning that he did not believe the convention could adjourn before Tuesday afternoon.

No Minority "Report."

When Chairman Root did call the convention to order at 12:30 o'clock, following a conference between Root and Hauser, it was decided that the convention would take up the reports of the credentials committee state by state.

Immediately after this announcement the secretary read the majority report of the contests in the 9th Alabama district, in which the Taft delegates were seated by the credentials committee.

Delegate McCormick of Illinois protested against the majority report, and presented the minority report, amid loud cheers from the Roosevelt delegates. He said the committee had given the minority no chance to make a report.

Chairman Root ruled that there can be no minority reports, and explained that any statement of the minority could not be made as a report, but as an expression of the views of the minority, and then only upon unanimous consent of the convention.

This consent was given and McCormick read his "views," and explained why 14 of the committee had voted in favor of the Roosevelt delegates in the 9th Alabama.

Moves Substitution.

As soon as McCormick had finished reading his views, Gov. Hadley moved the substitution of the minority for the majority report, and submitted a written argument in the case which, on unanimous consent of the convention, was read by McCormick.

Dovall of Washington replied to McCormick's argument in behalf of the majority of the committee, and he outlined the evidence that had come before the committee.

Hadley's Resolution.

At this stage of the proceedings Hadley submitted a resolution providing that no contested delegate shall vote on the adoption of the reports of the credentials committee until such delegates have been seated by the convention.

Chairman Root ruled that the convention could vote on that resolution for the "good of the party." Jim Watson moved to lay the motion on the table.

Alabama Delegates Barred.

Before the roll was called Chairman Root ruled that the contested Alabama delegates, whose cases were before the convention, could not vote on the motion to table the Hadley resolution, but that all others could.

Carried by Seventy.

The Taft forces increased their lead on the vote on Watson's motion to table the Hadley resolution, the vote standing 569 to 499, 10 delegates not voting.

Idaho Switched.

Taft's forces increased on this roll call was given by Idaho, who switched their eight votes against Col. Roosevelt's forces in voting to table the Hadley resolution.

HOLD CONVENTION IN FIRST REG. ARMORY?

THOUSANDS OF CHAIRS ARE PUT IN BIG HALL AND POLICE PROTECTION ASKED FOR WHAT IS THOUGHT WILL BE ROOSEVELT CONVENTION HALL.

Chicago, June 21.—Special to Telegraph.—Additional strength was given the rumor that Roosevelt would call his followers out of the regular republican national convention and hold a convention of his own, when this morning thousands of chairs were placed in the First Regiment armory, Chicago's second largest hall. At the same time police protection was asked for a meeting to be held there, and it is supposed that a Roosevelt convention will be called. The telegraph companies made hurried preparations during the day to handle the news of the second convention, if it materializes.

Has Perkins Quit?

Chicago, June 21.—Special to the Telegraph.—During a conference between Roosevelt and his aids this morning, a few moments before Jas. R. Garfield came out of Teddy's room George E. Perkins, Roosevelt's chief financial backer, came out, and as the door opened a voice which resembled Perkins' was heard to say: "Then I'm through; that's all." Perkins was asked if he had made the remark, but he declined to answer.

WOODMEN UNITE TO PROTECT ORDER

LOCAL LODGE HELD MEETING TO FORM A TEMPORARY ORGANIZATION.

PLAN TO FIGHT LEGISLATION

Lodges in Various Counties Forming Local Organization to Fight the Threatened and Alleged Dangerous Laws by State or Head Department.

At a meeting in Dixon last evening in conjunction with the regular meeting of the local camp M. W. A., the Lee County Modern Woodmen association was organized temporarily, with the election of temporary officers and the formation of a policy.

There were representatives from the 14 camps in Lee county present and they elected J. A. Dauntler of Dixon temporary chairman and J. W. Franklin of Dixon, temporary secretary; the next meeting to be held at Lee Center, which camp had the largest out of town representation at last night's meeting.

To Protect Order.

The purpose of the Lee County association, which is similar to organizations of the Woodmen in other counties, is to protect the membership of the Modern Woodmen from unjust legislation by either the state or legislative body or the head lodge of the order. The 14 camps in the county—Dixon, Amboy, Walton, Lee Center, Franklin Grove, Ashton, Paw Paw, West Brooklyn, Compton, Sublette, Steward and Eldena—have a total membership of about 1,500, of which one-third belong to the Dixon camp.

The organization, when made permanent, which will probably be at the next meeting, will formulate the plans to get all of the membership vote out on the election to be held on the proposed advanced rates, and will also unite with the other organizations of its kind in the state in the fight against the passage of the Mobile bill, which will come up at the next session of the legislature. The Mobile bill provides that all insurance companies shall have a reserve fund equal to the amount of insurance in force.

DIXON LADIES GO TO CONVENTION

MESDAMES LAW AND STEELE GO THROUGH DIXON ON SPECIAL TRAIN WITH LOAD OF DELEGATES TO GENERAL FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS.

A special train bearing 150 ladies bound to the convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, which will meet in San Francisco, passed through Dixon late yesterday afternoon over the C. & N. W. and aboard the train, which was in personal charge of C. A. Cairns, general passenger and ticket agent of the Northwestern system, were Mrs. D. H. Law and Mrs. Louis Steele of this city.

The train was composed of the Northwestern's best equipment and was scheduled to run on record time, leaving Chicago at 4 p. m. yesterday and arriving at Omaha at 6 this morning. Each lady on the train was presented with a handsome booklet describing the Northwestern's new passenger terminal, and doubtless each recipient will cherish the book, as it is a masterpiece of the printer's art.

HONORED DEPARTED FRIEND.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Fane, which was held this morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church, was very largely attended, the church being filled to capacity with friends of the deceased. Rev. Foley paid a pretty tribute to the deceased, and the floral tributes were many and very beautiful. Interment was at Oakwood cemetery.

I. R. Devine and family have moved from their home on East Fourth street to Assembly park, where they will camp this summer.

AUTOMOBILE RAN AMUCK YESTERDAY

MACHINE IN MOELLER & WILSON'S WAS CRANKED WITH GEARS IN AND IT PUSHED ANOTHER CAR THROUGH WINDOW.

When an employe at Moeller & Wilson's garage cranked an auto late yesterday afternoon he did not first examine his lever to see if his gears were in, but he soon discovered they were without looking at the lever, for when the engine caught spark on the turn of the crank the big car lunged straight for the front of the store, breaking its tail lamp and smashing it up into the show window, cracking a hole through the plate glass. The glass front on the car was broken. It is considered by those who witnessed the accident that nothing less than a miracle saved further destruction.

DIXON PASTOR ATTENDED CONFERENCE

REV. ROWLAND HAS RETURNED FROM BRETHREN CONVENTION IN YORK, PA.

MUSIC PUBLISHED TOMORROW NIGHT

TOMORROW EVENING'S TELEGRAPH WILL CONTAIN "A BIRD IN CHURCH," FROM MADAME SHERRY.

"A Bird in Church," one of the most pleasing of the interpolated airs in Madame Sherry, that successful musical comedy, will be the Telegraph's musical offering for tomorrow, and vocalists will find it especially appealing. The air is catchy, the harmony pleasing and the words are novel, making a song that has been a hit in every production of Madame Sherry second only to "Every Little Movement Has a Meaning of Its Own." This number will be published in tomorrow's Telegraph.

J. T. WILLIAMS WILL BOLT.

This morning's Inter Ocean, in its story of Roosevelt's efforts to get his delegates to bolt the convention with aim, says: "Gov. Denen came next. He had nothing to deliver that was worth talking about. But one lone delegate out of all the 58 from Illinois could be promised Roosevelt for a bolt. He was J. T. Williams of Sterling, one of the district delegates of the 11th congressional district—the Lowden district."

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF FREDERICK BOTT

Among the many friends and relatives who came to pay their last tribute to the memory of Frederick Bott were his son, Harry, and wife from Sterling; Guss Bott and family of Freeport; I. F. Kruse of near Oregon and daughter, Mrs. Harnagy of Chana.

PINE CREEK RESIDENT BLOWS OWN HEAD OFF

ZACHARIAH NEWCOMER COMMITTED SUICIDE WHILE DEPONDENT YESTERDAY.

USED SHOTGUN TO END HIS LIFE

Father-in-Law Left His Bedside for a Moment and Despondent Man Jumped Up, Grabbed Shotgun, Placed Muzzle to His Head and Pulled Trigger With Toe—Funeral Sunday.

Zachariah Newcomer, a highly respected farmer of Pine Creek township in Ogle county, while despondent because of ill health, suicided at about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, shooting himself through the head with a shotgun.

Mr. Newcomer had been in extreme ill health all winter and despite the efforts on the part of physicians his condition remained unchanged. For the past three or four weeks it had been noticed that he was very despondent, and for that reason a close watch was kept over him.

Was in His Bed Room.

Yesterday afternoon his father-in-law, Mr. Withers, was with him, and had talked encouragingly to him during the afternoon. At about 3:30 o'clock Mr. Withers stepped out into the yard for a few moments, and while out of doors he heard the report of the shotgun.

He immediately rushed into the house and into the sick man's bedroom, where he found him on the bed, with almost his entire head shot off. It is evident that the unfortunate man, brooding over what he believed was his incurable illness, and despondent because of his being a burden on others, seized the opportunity, got up and seized his shotgun, and discharged it with his toe while sitting on the edge of the bed.

Inquest Last Evening.

Coroner Alken of Ogle county was called at once and the inquest was held last evening, the jury returning a verdict of suicide while despondent. The funeral will be held Sunday at 10 a. m. at the Dunkard church, and interment will be made in that cemetery.

Mr. Newcomer, who was very well known in Dixon, was about 48 years of age and is survived by his wife and seven children.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS BOARD MET TODAY

FINAL ESTIMATE OF NORTH SIDE WORK LOWER THAN AT FIRST THOUGHT—VOUCHERS DRAWN BONDS TO BE ISSUED.

The board of local improvements held a meeting at the city hall this afternoon when the final estimate of City Engineer Egan on the macadam on East McKinney street, from Jefferson to Crawford avenues, which work has been done by Contractor W. H. Rink, was approved. The city clerk was ordered to pay voucher for $1,000 to Mr. Rink, thereby accepting the work, and to have bonds issued for the remainder. The final estimate, which was accepted, places the total cost of the improvement at $3025.45, which is $215 less than the original estimate, which was $3240.65.

MURDERER IS PARALYZED.

Peoria Star: What officers of the jail thought was sickness in Louis Reiter, the metal worker who killed Mrs. Hattie Phelps at Virginia Beach a week ago today, has proved to be paralysis.

Ever since Reiter was taken to jail and placed in the women's department under medical treatment for the wound he inflicted on his neck in an effort to end his life, he has apparently remained in a semi-conscious condition. He has refused to talk or get up from his cot. Reiter's jailers were of the belief that he was sulky and sullen.

The prisoner was examined yesterday by Drs. Geo. Michell, head of the Peoria sanitarium, and E. E. Nystrom the county physician. After the physicians had made a thorough examination of the patient they concluded that he was suffering from paralysis. The examination was made at the instance of the sheriff and state attorney.

SCORES NATIONAL COMMITTEE

Says It and Party Leaders Are "Cheating the People"—He Refers to "Rascals" and Others and Says He Will Carry on Battle, Even if They Succeed in Depriving Nation of Its Rights in Convention.

Convention Hall, Chicago, June 21.—When the convention reassembled at 4 p. m. yesterday adjournment was taken until 11 a. m. today. Roosevelt did not appear.

Theodore Roosevelt will accept the nomination for president, whether it comes from the regular party gathering or from a party of bolters. In a signed printed statement issued at 3:15 p. m. yesterday he made that declaration emphatically. He also asserts that he does not want the support of a single man through personal feeling, as he has nothing to offer any man. In his lengthy statement he reviews the conditions existing at the Coliseum previous to and during the present convention and his talk abounds with the terms of "rascals."

What the Colonel Said. Colonel Roosevelt's statement follows: "The time has come when I feel I must make a statement not merely to the honestly elected members of the Republican national convention but to the rank and file of the Republican party and to the honest people of the entire nation.

"I went into this fight for certain great principles. At the present moment I can only serve these principles by continuing to bear the personal responsibility which their advocacy has brought to me.

"On behalf of these principles I made my appeals straight to the people themselves. I went before them. I made my argument in full; and every move I made was in the open, without concealment of any kind.

Opposition Terribly Bitter. "The opposition to me was extraordinarily bitter, for I was opposed by the practically solid phalanx of the big, conscienceless politicians, with back of them the practically solid phalanx of the big, conscienceless beneficiaries of special privileges in every form and, of course, the many big newspapers which are controlled by or in the interest of the bosses and special privilege.

"Nevertheless, in my appeal to the people I won. In many of the Republican states and of the Democratic states where there is a large and real Republican party, primaries of different kinds were held and a substantial expression of the will of the people was obtained.

"In these primary states some 3,000,000 voters, the rank and file of the Republican party, cast their votes; I beat Taft over 2 to 1. In these states I obtained about six delegates to Mr. Taft's one. Nearly three-fourths of my delegates came from these primary states where the people had a chance to express themselves.

Refers to "90 Stolen Ones." "Mr. Taft's strength, as indicated by the two roll calls already taken, consisted chiefly (aside from his 90 stolen delegates) of nearly the solid delegations from the territories and from the southern states in which there is no real Republican party—South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana—and of the northern states like New York, where the people had no chance to express themselves at primaries and where the delegates were picked by the bosses.

"In spite of these odds against me I obtained a clear majority of all the delegates elected to the convention. In my campaign I again and again stated that if the people decided against me I would have nothing to say, but that if they decided for me, and the politicians then robbed me of the victory, I would not silently and tamely acquiesce. It was evident that my opponents, with Mr. Taft's encouragement, intended to beat me by foul means if they could not do so by tainly in the Commonwealth and in my own observation, I can unhesi-well, if not slightly better, than by the men.

CUTTING PRICES—A SOLILOQUY.

(With Apologies to Hamlet)
To cut or not to cut. That is the question.
Whether it is not better in the end
To let the chap who knows not the worth
Have the business at cut-throat prices or
To take up arms against his competition.
And by opposing cut for cut, end it.
To cut—and by cutting put the other fellow
Out of business—'tis a consummation Devoutly to be wished. To cut—to slash, Perchance myself to get it in the neck—
Aye—there's the rub; for when one starts to meet
The other fellow's prices, 'tis like as not
He's up against it good and hard.

To cut and to slash is not to end the confusion
And the many evils the trade is pes-tered with;
Nay, nay, Pauline; 'tis but the forerunner
Of debt and mortgage such a course portends.
'Tis well to get the prices the goods
are worth,
And not to be bluffed into selling them for what
So-and-so will sell his goods for.
Price-cutting doth appear unseemly
And fit only for the man who knows
not
What his goods are worth, and who,
ere long,
By stress of making vain comparison
'Twixt bank account and liabilities,
Will make his exit from the business.

CLARKE OF PEORIA IN NUMBER

Postmaster Campbell of Chicago,

Fred Upham and Others False — Actions Make Primary a Farce.

Seven men who were instructed to support Roosevelt by the primary vote of Illinois on Tuesday at the opening of the national convention proved false in their service and supported the Taft candidate for temporary chairman in opposition to the Roosevelt candidate and thereby aided in throwing the control of the convention to Taft and in seating the Taft delegates filched from the Roosevelt column. Their action emphasizes the necessity of not only instructing the delegates, but of selecting men who will stay true to their charge and who favor the candidate for whom they are instructed. Those who proved false are:

Robert D. Clark of Peoria, better known as Bob Clark, head of the Clark line of distilleries. Mayor E.
N. Woodruff was the regularly elected Peoria delegate but he transferred his right to vote to Clark, whose position was well known. Cairo A. Trimble of Princeton, the other delegate from the district, voted for the Roosevelt candidate and acted with the Roosevelt delegation on every proposition.

Postmaster Campbell of Chicago proved false to his district. He was one of the men who sought to take an underhand advantage in the filing of the Cullom petition and whose scheme would have met with success save for the action of Secretary of State Rose who, upon discovering the facts, turned Campbell and his following down.

Fred W. Upham of Chicago is anfor Roosevelt by a two to one vote,

Royal Worcester and Bon Ton Corsets

THE WOMAN who purchases a BON TON with the maker's personal assurance that she is buying for the price asked, all that is consistent and possible, so far as quality, style, fit, workmanship and wear are concerned. In fact,

with all these attributes combined in a corset, nothing is left to be desired.

It goes without saying that the BON TON is unquestionably the finest ready-to-wear corset made—the final word in the art of modern cor-setry.

Just as the BON TON is the undisputed leader in its class, the ROYAL WORCESTER enjoys the unique prestige of being unmistakably the greatest corset value at a medium price. The majority always have worn the ROYAL WORCESTER. This has been so for fifty years, or since the first pair was made.

JUNE.

O, Queenly month of indolent repose,
I drink thy breath in sips of rare perfume,
As in thy drowsy lap of clover
bloom,
I nestle like a drowsy child to doze
The lazy hours away. The zephyr throws
The shifting shuttle of summer's loom
And waves a damask work of gleams and gloom
Before thy listless feet. The lily blows
A bugle-call of fragrance o'er the glade;
And wheeling into ranks with bloom and spear
Shy harvest-armies gather on parade;
While 'aint and far away, yet pure and clear,
A voice calls out of alien land of shade—
"All hail the Peerless Goddess of the year."

Sharples Milking Machine

Not since the invention of the self binder has the farming world been as interested in an invention as that of the Successful Milking Machine.

The binder is used only a few days a year at best while the milking must be done twice a day and 365 days in a year.

It is possible now to milk as many cows as you can house and feed.

One man can milk with 3 units 36 cow in 1 hour

The great problem of help, and the bother of milking will soon be over.

For some time the Sharples Separator Co., has been making and using this machine.

They have been used in the Eastern states far two years and are giving the best of satisfaction.

This picture shows one of the greatest milking cows in this country.
She is milked all the time with the Sharples Mechanical Milker and her udder and teats are in the best of condition.

On the overhead pipe line is seen the pulsator, from this to the pair two rubber tubes extend.

The teat cups are shown in place, the milk passing through the tube from the base of teat cups to the pail.

This is the only part that the milk touches.

Sharples Separator Co.,
Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen—In regard to the Milking Machine installed by you over a month ago. Would like to advise that it is giving very good satisfaction, and as far as we are able to learn the cows are in as good condition as when machine was put on.

I would certainly advise any man milking twenty or more cows to give this machine a trial. If he once tries it he will never let it be taken out.

There is nothing that gets out of order.

Yours Very Respectfully,
E. R. KEENEY.

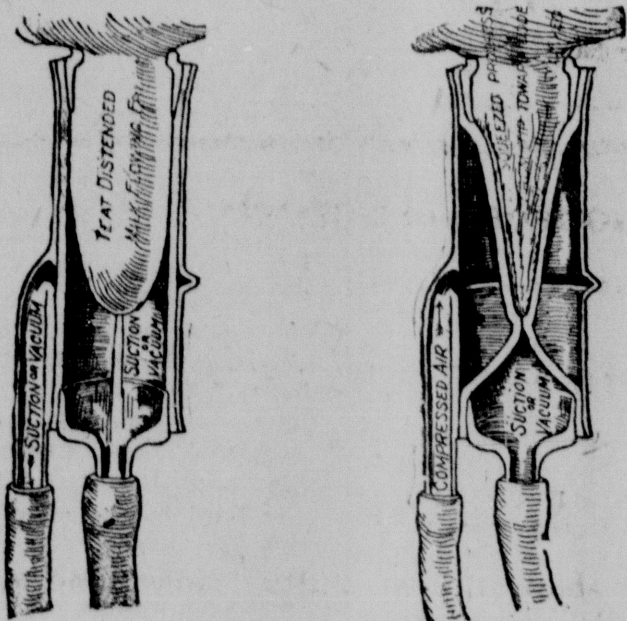

Rockton, Ill., May 27, 1912.

The Teat Cup with the Upward Squeeze

The Sharples Mechanical Milker does not rely upon continuous suction in any form, but absolutely, positively and completely relieves the teat from such suction every second or two during milking, thereby milking the cow quickly and thoroughly and leaving the teats and udder soft, pliable, comfortable, cool and natural.

HOW IT WORKS

It is operated by alternate vacuum or suction, and compressed air.
The vacuum draws the milk from the cow. The compressed air separates the vacuum from the teats every second or two, and thus relieves the teat and positively prevents any bad effects resulting from continuous suction. The alternate action of vacuum and compressed air is one of several reasons why The Sharples Milker is superior to and far in advance of other milkers.

This illustration shows how the teat cup does its work and prevents injury to the cow.

In the first illustration the vacuum caused by the pump at the engine and communicated by the overhead tubes is sucking milk, the rubber lining being drawn against the teat cup shell so as to allow plenty of room for the teat.

In the second illustration no milk is flowing; the vacuum has been cut off from contact with the teat by the compressed air which has entered at the side. This fills the space between the teat cup and the lining, forcing the rubber in against the teat and squeezes it from the point upward. The blood is thus forced back into circulation, and the teat is empty and soft.

Sharples Separator Co.,

Gentlemen—The Sharples mechanical Milker purchased from you in September 1910, is now on its second year of success with us. Beginning Oct. 1 1910, we milked from 40 to 80 cows every night and morning without fail.
During that time I have watched the machine carefully and I have failed yet to find its first weakness. It seems to be in just as good order as it was the day it was installed. The herd is entirely free from garget cow-pox and diseases of the udder and the year's record of milk production compares favorably with that of the year before. I appreciate very much the work the machine has done for me and it is with pleasure that I offer this testimonial.

CHAPTER XIII.

Job and Pollie Bumpus.

"I never have told a down-right falsehood," said Lina. "Mother taught me how wicked it is to tell stories. Did you ever tell a fib to your mother, Frances?"

"Tain't no use to try to 'celve my mama," was the reply of the other little girl; "she's got such gimlet eyes and ears she can tell with 'em shut if you're fibbing. I gave up hope long ago, so I just go 'long and tell her the plain gospel truth when she asks me, 'cause I know those gimlet eyes and ears of hers 're going to worm it out o' me somehow."

"Grown folks pin you down so close sometimes," said Jimmy, "you bound to 'varicate a little; and I always tell God I'm sorry. I tell my mama the truth 'most all time 'cuzing when she asks questions 'bout things ain't none of her business a tall, and she all time want to know 'Who done it?' and if I let on it's me, I know she'll wear out all the slippers and hair-brushes she is paddling my canoe, 'gides switches, so I jus' say 'I do know, m'—which all time ain't perfectly the truth. You ever tell Miss Minerva stories, Billy?"

"Aunt Cindy always says, 'twa'n't no harm 't all to beat 'bout the bush an' try to 'tlow folks over the track 'long as you can, but if it come to the point where you got to tell a out-and-out fib, she say for me always to tell the truth, an' I jest natchally do like she say ever sence I's born," replied Billy.

The children swung awhile in silence. Presently Jimmy broke the quiet by remarking:

"Don't you all feel sorry for old Miss Pollie Bumpus? She live all by herself, and she 'bout a million years old, and Doctor Sanford ain't never brung her no chillens 'cause she 'ain't got 'er no husband 'to be their papa, and she got a octopus in her head, and she poor as a post and deaf as Job's old turkey-hen."

"Job's old turkey-hen wasn't deaf," retorted Lina primly; "she was very, very poor and thin."

"She was deaf, too," insisted Jimmy, "'cause it's in the Bible. I know all 'bout Job," bragged he.

"I know all 'bout Job, too," chirped Frances.

"Job, nothing!" said Jimmy, with a sneer; "you all time talking 'bout you know all 'bout Job; you 'bout the womanishest little girl they is. Now I know Job 'cause Miss Cecelia 'plained all 'bout him to me. He's in the Bible and he sold his birthmark for a mess of potatoes and—"

"You never can get anything right, Jimmy," interrupted Lina; "that was Esau and it was not his birthmark, it was his birthstone; and he sold his birthstone for a mess of potash."

"Yes," agreed Frances; "he saw Esau kissing Kate and Esau had to sell him his birthstone to keep his mouth shut."

"Mother read me all about Job," continued Lina; "he was afflicted with boils and his wife knit him a Job's comforter to wrap around him, and he—"

"And he sat under a 'tato vine," put in Frances eagerly, "what God grew to keep the sun off o' his boils and—"

"That was Jonah," said Lina, "and it wasn't a potato vine; it was—"

"No, 't wasn't Jonah neither; Jonah is inside of a whale's bel—"

"Frances!"

"Stomick," Frances corrected herself, "and a whale swallow him, and how's he going to sit under a pumpkin vine when he's inside of a whale?"

"It was not a pumpkin vine, it—"

"And I'd jus' like to see a man inside of a whale a-setting under a morning-glory vine."

"The whale vomicked him up," said Jimmy.

"What sorter thing is a octopus like what 'tall say is in Miss Pollie Bumpus's head?" asked Billy.

"Tain't a octopus, it's a polypus," explained Frances, "'cause she's named Miss Pollie. It's a somethin' that grows in your nose and has to be named what you's named. She's named Miss Pollie and she's got a polypus."

"I'm mighty glad my mama ain't got no Eva-pus in her head," was Jimmy's comment. "Ain't you glad, Billy, your Aunt Minerva ain't got no Miss Minerva-pus?"

"I sho' is," fervently replied Miss Minerva's nephew; "she's hard 'nough to manage now like she is."

"I'm awful good to Miss Pollie," said Frances. "I take her sometin' good to eat 'most every day. I took her two pieces of pie this morning; I ate one piece on the way and she gimme the other piece when I got there. I jus' don't believe she could get 'long at all 'tbout me to carry her the good things to eat that my mama send her; I takes her pies all the time; she says they're the best smellin' pies she smelt."

"You 'bout the piggiest girl they is," said Jimmy, "all time got to eat up a poor old woman's pies. You'll have a Frances-pus in your stomach first thing you know."

"She's got a horn that you talk th'oo," continued the little girl, serenely contemptuous of Jimmy's adverse criticism, "and 'fore I knew how you talk into it, she says to me one day, 'How's your ma?' and stuck that old horn at me; so I put it to my ear, too, and there we set; she got one end of the horn to her ear and I got the other end to my ear; so when I saw this wasn't going to work I took it and blew into it; you-all'd died laughing to see the way I did. But now I can talk th'oo it's good's anybody."

"That is an ear trumpet, Frances," said Lina; "it is not a horn."

"Let's play 'Hide the Switch,'" suggested Billy.

"I'm going to hide it first," cried Frances.

"Naw, you ain't," objected Jimmy, "you all time got to hide the switch first. I'm going to hide it first myself."

"No, I'm going to say 'William Corn Trimbleton,'" said Frances, "and see who's going to hide it first. Now you all spraddle out your fingers."

CHAPTER XIV.

Mr. Algernon Jones.

Again it was Monday, with the Ladies Aid Society in session. Jimmy was sitting on the grass in his own front yard, in full view of Sarah Jane, who was ironing clothes in her cabin with strict orders to keep him at home. Billy was in the swing in Miss Minerva's yard.

"Come on over," he invited.

"I can't," was the reply across the fence, "I'm so good now I 'bout got 'ligion; I reckon I'm going to be a mish'ary or a politician, one or t'other when I'm a grown-up man 'cause I'm so good; I ain't got but five whippings this week. I been good ever since I let you 'suade me to play Injun. I'm the goodest boy in this town, I 'spee. Sometimes I get scared 'bout being so good 'cause I hear a woman say if you ain't got no sense, once. You come on over here; you ain't trying to be good like what I'm trying, and Miss Minerva don't never do nothing a tall to you 'cepting put you to bed."

"I'd rather 'o git whipped fifty hundred times 'n to hafter go to bed in the daytime with Aunt Minerva lookin' at you. An' her specs can see right th'oo you plumb to the bone. Naw, I can't come over there 'cause she made me promise not to. I ain't never go back on my word 't'."

"I hope mama won't never ask me to promise her nothing a tall, 'cause I'm mighty curious 'bout forgetting. I 'spee' I'm the most forgettin' little boy they is. But I'm so glad I'm so good. I ain't never going to be bad no more; so you might just as well quit beggin' me to come over and swing, you needn't ask me no more, 'taint no use a tall."

"I ain't a-begging you," cried Billy contemptuously, "you can set on yo' mammy's grass where you is, an' be good from now tell Judgement Day an'—"

"I won't make no change in my business."

"I ain't going to be 'ticed into no meanness, 'cause I'm so good," continued the reformed one, after a short silence during which he had seen Sarah Jane turn her back to him, "but I don't b'lieve it'll be no harm jus' to come over and set in the swing with you; maybe I can 'tience you to be good like me and keep you from 'ticing little boys into mischief. I think I'll just come over and set a while and help you to be good," and he started to the fence. Sarah Jane turned around in time to frustrate his plans.

"You git right back, Jimmy," she yelled, "you git erway 'rom dat-er fence an' quit confabbin' 'd dat-er Willyum. Fixin' to make some mo' Injuns out o' yo-selves, ain't yeh, or some yuther kin' o' skeercrows?"

Billy strolled to the other side of the big yard and climbed up and got on the tall gate post. A stranger, coming from the opposite direction, stopped and spoke to him.

"Does Mr. John Smith live here?" he asked.

"Naw, str," was the reply; "don't no Mr. 'tall live here; jest me an' Aunt Minerva, an' she turns up her nose at anything that wants pants."

"And where could I find your Aunt Minerva?" the stranger's grin was ingratiating and agreeable.

"Why, this here's Monday," the little boy exclaimed. "Of course she's at the Aid; all the 'emans run' here goes to the Aid on Monday."

"Your aunt is an old friend of mine," went on the man, "and I knew she was at the Aid. I just wanted to find out if you'd tell the truth about her. Some little boys tell stories, but I am glad to find out you are so truthful. My name is Mr. Algernon Jones and I'm glad to know you. Shake! Put it there, partner," and the fascinating stranger held out a grimy paw.

Billy smiled down from his perch at him and thought he had never met such a pleasant man. If he was such an old friend of his aunt's maybe he would not object to him because he wore pants, he thought. Maybe she might be persuaded to take Mr. Jones for a husband. Billy almost hove that she would hurry home from the Aid, he wanted to see the two together so.

"Is you much of a cusser?" he asked solemnly, "'cause if you is you'll hafter cut it out on these premises."

Mr. Jones seemed much surprised and hurt at the question.

"An oath never passed these lips," replied the truthful gentleman.

"Can you churn?"

"Churn—churn?" with a reminiscent smile, "I can churn like a top."

Jimmy was dying of curiosity, but the gate was too far away for him to do more than catch a word now and then. It was also out of Sarah Jane's visual line, so she knew nothing of the stranger's advent.

"And you're here all by yourself?" inquired Billy's new friend. "And the folks next door, where are they?"

"Mrs. Garner's at the Aid, an' Mr. Garner's gone to Memphis. That is they little boy a-settin' in they yard on they grass," answered the child.

"I've come to fix your Aunt Minerva's water pipe," said the truth-loving Mr. Jones. "Come, show me the way; I'm the plumber."

"In the bath room?" asked the child. "I didn't know it needed no fixin'."

He led the agreeable plumber through the hall, down the long back porch to the bath room, remarking:

"I'll jes' watch you work." And he seated himself in the only chair.

Here is where Billy received one of greatest surprises of his life. The fascinating stranger grabbed him with a rough hand and hissed:

"Don't you dare open your mouth or I'll crack your head open and scatter your brains. I'll eat you alive."

The fierce, bloodshot eyes, which had seemed so laughing and merry before, now glared into those of the little boy as the man took a stout cord from his pocket, bound Billy to the chair and gagged him with a large bath towel. Energetic Mr. Jones took the key out of the door, shook his fist at the child, and went out, and locked the door behind him.

Jimmy seeing no hope of eluding Sarah Jane's vigilance, resorted to strategy and deceit.

"Tain't no fun setting out here," he called to her, "so I'm going in the house and take a nap."

She willingly consented, as she was through with her ironing and thought to snatch a few winks of sleep herself.

The little boy slipped quietly through the house, noiselessly across the back yard and into his father's big garden, which was separated from that of his neighbor by a high board fence. He quickly climbed the fence, flew across Miss Minerva's tomato patch and tiptoed up her back steps to the back porch, his little bare feet giving no sign of his presence. Hearing curious noises coming from the bath room, where Billy was bumping the chair up and down in his efforts to release his mouth, he made for that spot, promptly unlocked the door and walked in. Billy by scuffling and tugging had freed his mouth from the towel that bound it at that moment.

Members of Credentials Committee Block Efforts of Colonel's Men to Oust President's Delegates.

5 STATES DISPOSED OF

Temporary Bolt From Body Causes Some Preliminary Excitement, But It Is Soon at an End.

M'HARG DEPLORES WALK OUT

Colonel New Declares He Believes Adjournment Over Sunday Will Be Forced by Delay in the Body Which Is Deciding the Makeup of Big Convention—Nebraska, Maryland and Illinois Men Vote Not to Leave Big Meeting.

Chicago, June 21.—The following statement was given out here by the Roosevelt headquarters:

"The Roosevelt delegates at the meeting in the Florentine room have decided that they will not permit the title to the presidency of the United States to be taken.

"If the action of the convention on the report of the committee on credentials does not remove from the roll of delegates the names fraudulently placed therein by the national committee, the Roosevelt forces will refuse to be bound by the action of the convention."

Chicago, June 21.—The fight between the Taft and Roosevelt forces at the Republican national convention yesterday was transferred from the floor of the convention to the credentials committee.

After a fight in which every step was hotly contested and which lasted far into the night, the committee decided practically all of the contests taken up in favor of the delegates as seated by the national committee, ruling against the Roosevelt adherents.

Five States Disposed Of.

The following cases have been disposed of: Taft delegates were seated for the Ninth Alabama district, two; for Arizona, six; for Arkansas, 16; for Florida, 12.

Following Arkansas the Fourth California district was called, but neither Governor Johnson nor Francis J. Heney, who have accused the Taft men of stealing this district, put in an appearance, so the sergeant-at-arms was directed to find them. Then the Florida contest was taken up and settled and Georgia followed.

Says Devine Is Unfair.

After seven and a half hours on the Alabama and Arizona cases Sullivan of Ohio, a Taft man, complained because Chairman Devine had not enforced the semblance of a time limit in rule four.

"We agree unanimously that the chairman has been too liberal with us," said Halbert, the Roosevelt leader. But Devine only smiled and said: "Call the next case."

The Taft majority also decided that they will sit in continuous session until all the cases are disposed of. That may take 24, 36 or 72 hours. Also it may keep the convention in session until Tuesday of next week.

"We insist upon proving our right to every seat we claim," said former Senator Charles Dick, the Taft lawyer at large.

Submit Partial Report.

To facilitate matters the Taft men submitted a partial report when the convention met at noon today to allow the convention to take up the cases one at a time and thereby get both mills to grinding simultaneously.

In the Ninth Alabama case, although three hours was spent on it, no new facts or new arguments from those made before the national committee were presented. The vote for the Taft men was 34 to 13.

The Arizona contest was fought bitterly, but it was the same old story heard ten days ago. The vote was 33 to 14.

When the Arkansas contests were called the Roosevelt men, except for the Fifth district, submitted their cases without argument, and 14 Taft men were seated by a vote of 34 to 0, the Roosevelt men not voting at all.

The Roosevelt members absent were:

Francis J. Heney, California; E. G. Carrington, Jr., Maryland, and S. X. Way, South Dakota.

Means a Long Struggle.

The walkout of 12 Roosevelt members of the committee the night before a declared by many to have been a blunder. Ormsby McHarg, the contest expert for the Roosevelt men, said as much.

Return of the bolters means a struggle is on before the committee on credentials that may last 36 hours. The Taft majority has thrown down the bars and all of the 252 original contests may be aired if the Roosevelt people so desire.

Only thirty-two of the fifty-two mem-

TO SECOND TAFT NOMINATION

John Wanamaker of Philadelphia, who made a hurried trip from Berlin, Germany, to Chicago for the purpose of seconding the nomination of President Taft at the Republican national convention.

Members of the committee were present when the doors were opened to the newspaper men. Hugh T. Halbert of Minnesota and L. N. Mitchell of Pennsylvania were the two Roosevelt men first to appear in the committee room. Francis J. Heney and the majority of the other Roosevelt men were not present when the committee met.

Four Remain to Fight.

Robert R. McCormick, representing Illinois; Clancy St. Clair, Idaho; W. S. Lauder, North Dakota, and John N. Early, Tennessee, Roosevelt men, did not join in the bolt from the credentials committee. They remained and voted against the rules which have aroused the ire of the bolters.

Those who did not answer to the roll call were:

Francis J. Heney California
Lex N. Mitchell Pennsylvania
Jesse M. Libby Maine
Edward C. Carrington, Jr. Maryland
H. T. Halbert Minnesota
C. H. Sackett Nebraska
C. H. Cowles North Carolina
John J. Sullivan Ohio
A. D. Swift Oregon
Daniel Norton Oklahoma
S. X. Ray South Dakota

Temporary Organization Permanent.

That the temporary organization of the Republican national convention shall become its permanent organization, was the decision of the committee on organization. They will recommend that Temporary Chairman Root become permanent chairman. The vote was 21 to 7. The seven opposing members then withdrew from the committee session.

Refuse to Bolt Convention.

Members of the convention resolutions committee from Nebraska, Maryland and Illinois reported to that body the refusal of their delegations to bolt the convention at the call of Roosevelt. W. F. Bundy is the Illinois member. All of these states are Roosevelt states in which President Taft has only two delegates all told, both in Illinois. On the other hand the Roosevelt members on the subcommittee on resolutions from Pennsylvania and California failed to show up or make explanations.

Governor Hadley of Missouri was late in arriving, but said he had been unavoidably detained.

Fight May Last Over Sunday.

Harry S. New, national committee man and delegate at large from Indiana and chairman of the committee on arrangements for the present convention, expressed the belief that the convention would be unable to finish its work this week and would have to adjourn over Sunday.

Credential Committee Rules.

The rules adopted by the credentials committee, modified after the protest of the Roosevelt men, but still unacceptable to that faction, follow:

1. The roll of the states shall first be called to ascertain what contests are to be submitted, and they shall be heard in the alphabetical order of states and territories and the District of Columbia.

2. Cases consolidated by the national committee shall be consolidated for hearing by the committee on credentials.

3. Contestants not seated by the national committee shall open their case.

4. Thirty minutes to each side will be allowed in contests over delegates at large and twenty minutes in district contests. The contestant may reserve five minutes of this time to close the argument. Parties to contests shall be given all time that may be reasonably necessary to present before the committee all their evidence.

5. Immediately after each case is heard the committee will, after discussion, pass upon it.

6. No member of this committee shall be permitted to vote in any case wherein such member holds his seat on the facts involved in the contests, and such member shall retire from the room while the committee is discussing and acting upon his case.

7. No one shall be admitted to the hearings before the committee except the officers and employees of the committee and the parties to the case being heard and their attorneys, except the five press associations admitted by the national committee.

TAFT WILL NOT QUIT

SENDS WORD FROM WHITE HOUSE OF "NO COMPROMISE."

Declares He Will Not Withdraw Name From Consideration at Chicago.

Washington, June 21.—Taft will not withdraw from the race for any candidate. "No compromise" was the official word from the White House in response to inquiries if the president would withdraw his name from consideration by the Chicago convention and throw his support to a compromise candidate.

Senators and representatives telephoned and called personally to assure the president of their support and convince him the time had passed for a compromise.

Senator McCumber urged the president to fight to the end and to insist that his managers carry out the program as outlined. Former Representative Wood of Ohio called to express like sentiments.

Secretary of State Knox and Attorney General Wickersham were with the president for an hour, conferring on departmental matters and the political situation at Chicago.

"His nerve is superb," said the attorney general. "He has not allowed the convention or the bolting of Roosevelt or anything else to disturb his equilibrium."

Secretary Knox declared he had not heard the president ever considered withdrawing. He declared the president would stand firm.

FEARED THAW WOULD KILL

Former Landlady of Slayer of Stanford White Became Hysterical on Witness Stand.

White Plains, N. Y., June 21.—Mrs. Susan Merritt, Harry K. Thaw's former landlady, became hysterical and screamed in court here that she did not wish to testify in the Thaw insanity hearing. She said that on one occasion Thaw beat two young girls almost into insensibility and that when she broke into the room he rushed at her.

"I thought he would kill us all," she said.

Mrs. Merritt swore that $7,000 in $1,000 bills was paid to one of the girls to silence her and that upwards of 200 girls received money in large amounts.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw testified that her husband made a proposal in New York in 1900 that they both commit suicide. He had the details all planned, she said. She refused.

Gavel From Wood of the Maine.

Louisville, Ky., June 21.—An interesting event in the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges, in session here, was the presentation to the convention of a gavel made of wood from a table in Captain Sigbee's cabin on the Maine. It was presented by J. S. Head of Havana. Bits of marine growth remain incrusting in the wood.

Solid As a Rock!

Here is the absolutely new anchoring device used only on the old reliable Saginaw Silo, which makes it as solid as one piece of granite—as immovable as a mountain. It is our Handy Inner Anchoring Hoop, which circles the inside of the silo above the silage and directly opposite the top outside hoop. It supports any silage that might loosen and prevents them falling inward. Once in place, it needs no attention, no adjusting. Cables from anchoring points to ground rods complete support that dynamite could hardly move. No loose staves! No falling in! No blowing down! Write today for details.
